

You Remember When Driving Was Fun?

Back in the 1950's people looked at the automobile as more than transportation. With gasoline costing just a few cents per gallon, new highways springing up across the country, and even more exotic auto design, driving was an adventure. A sports car became a status symbol, and the MG became the dream car of every young driver in America and England alike. With its convertible top, shiny grille, sweeping fenders, and piercing horn, the MGTD was an invitation to fun!

Like you, we fell in love with the MGTD and all that it signified. And while no one can bring back the "good old days", we can bring back some of the elements of the good times that surrounded the automobile, some 40 years ago
